READY FOR NEW ERA

SUBSTANTIAL STORE ERECTED WHERE BROADWAY IS TO BE WIDENED

It is wise to look ahead. Glendale is a growing city. In 1910 its population was only 2466. In 1915 it has advanced to almost 7600. Such an increase is significant and those who have wit enough to appreciate what it means understand that the next few years will see a further enormous advance. A city that can increase its population more than 220 per cent in five years may be expected to grow into something of consequence.

Not the least significant part of the development of Glendale is the widening of Broadway that is to be prosecuted on the east side of Glendale avenue. There twenty feet is to be added to the width of the street and the improvements extended a considerable length in that direction. Among those who have already taken advantage of those conditions is Mr. Peter Jensen, who has erected a handsome new store and residence building at the corner of Broadway and Adams. The new building stands twenty feet back from the present roadway, showing the width of the street after the alteration shall have been made. A great part of the work of building has been done by Mr. Jensen himself and the building exhibits all the marks of work done under careful supervision and with good taste.

The store is built of artistic brick, has a handsome tile roof, and is large and commodious. Just at present Mr. Jensen is finishing painting the interior of the store. It will be opened as a general grocery store within a month.

Behind the store and part of the same building is the dwelling house, which has a nicely appointed living-room, bedroom, kitchen, bathroom, and various other adjuncts. The rooms are finished with nicely tinted walls and ceilings done in oil paint; the ceilings are high and all the latest ideas are embodied in the kitchen.

Mr. Jensen was born in Schleswig-Holstein, near Flensburg, in 1864, about the time that the Germans were overrunning the province. His father was killed in the fighting and as a youth Mr. Jensen received education on the German method and was finally drafted into the army. After some service he left and went to Hartlepool, England, and thence to Liverpool, from which port he sailed for the United States, of which he has been a citizen for many years.

Mr. Jensen has faith in the future of Glendale and is confident that before long, when the revival of business begins, Glendale will be advancing toward the front and the hum of busy life will be heard in the streets. Anyway, as a pioneer in the line of business, he is to open up in that section, he deserves credit and support.

JUNIOR BASEBALL LEAGUE

Mr. Julius Lehman, superintendent of the Union high school summer playground; Miss Rowe, superintendent of the Central avenue playground, have arranged the appended schedule of games which they strongly advise every boy in connection with the game to cut out and keep for future reference:

Schedule First Week

This schedule will be repeated in similar order during the third week.

Second Week

Judging from the profound interest that the boys are taking in the game and the faithful manner in which they are putting in practice, all these matches will be well worth seeing. Under the skilled guidance of their coaches the boys are beginning to exhibit considerable skill, both with the bat and in the field, while several excellent pitchers are being developed. The exact make-up of both Raymond's and Myron's teams has not been settled and will be published afterward.

A man is disposed to keep the door leading to the skeleton in his closet locked. A woman not only opens the door, but delivers lectures on anatomy to the neighbors.

TO SAVE WILD LIFE

STATE ZOOLOGY EXPERT URGES CITIZENS TO PROTECT GAME FROM EXTINCTION

That certain parties are taking more than their share of the resources of wild nature, which belong not only to all the people now living, but also to the generations of the future indefinitely, is the opinion of W. P. Taylor, curator of mammals, California Museum of Vertebrate Zoology. Mr. Taylor has made a study of the subject of conservation of wild animal life and he thinks that the apathetic conservationists who believe in preserving the game animals, fish and birds of the state have need to get into action.

"Certain communities," says Mr. Taylor, "in the mountains of California apparently have no interest whatever in game protection. In other communities the conservation tide runs strong. I cannot escape the conviction that in these latter cases interested and enthusiastic individuals have leavened the whole lump and have transformed their communities from opponents to supporters of preservation of wild life."

"If you are a teacher, commend the protection of wild life to your pupils and lead them to a love for the outdoors. If you are a professional man, contribute articles to your professional journals and initiate and give vigorous support to movements for a better sentiment in your own community. If you are an editor, upon you, in no small degree, will depend the education of your city along these lines. If you are a member of a woman's club, secure the interest of your organization in the work of saving the game of California. Communicate with Mrs. Harriet Williams Myers, 311 Avenue Sixty-six, Los Angeles, chairman for wild life conservation of the California Federation of Women's clubs, and promise your co-operation."

"If you are a sportsman, join with others and form an organization for game protection. Take 'law enforcement' as your slogan. Do what you can to set up and maintain high standards among the men who hunt."

"If you are a farmer, learn to know your friends among the wild mammals and birds, and see to it that the individuals or species you would condemn as hurtful to your interests are guaranteed a fair trial at least before execution. Provide food plants, shrubbery and nest-boxes for beneficial birds, and reserve a part of your acres as a sanctuary where game may be safe from molestation."

"If you are a parent, inculcate in your children the highest possible ideals in the matter of preservation of all our natural resources, and train them up, by precept and example, to avoid individual and social wastefulness. If you are a plain citizen, then yours is the heaviest responsibility and the highest privilege of all; for you must decide through the ballot box and personal influence what shall be done with California's wild game."

"I believe that all true sons of California, whether native or adopted, are idealists and love justice and square dealing. We have been accustomed since the days of the rugged forty-niners to good-natured contests of one sort or another, and fair play is a tradition wrought into the fiber of our commonwealth. All considerations of justice, square dealing and fair play lead with inevitable certainty to the conclusion that we hold those natural resources which still remain to use in trust for the generations of the future; and that while we may legitimately take toll of these possessions, we must not impair the seedstock."

GOOD TEMPLARS

The local I. O. G. T. lodge is to worship with the First Methodist church Sunday evening. Their national grand secretary of Beverly, Mass., will deliver the address of the evening, taking as his subject "The Progress of the Water Wagon."

Mr. Wylie is an exceptionally fine speaker and has been greatly honored by the Good Templars. He was elected grand councillor in 1890, was grand chief templar from 1894 to 1895, has attended four sessions of the international supreme lodge, held in foreign countries, and practically all sessions in this country. He has twice been a candidate for governor of Massachusetts. He is not a prophet without honor in his home city, as he is now president of the board of aldermen, having recently been re-elected, carrying every ward in the city by the largest majority ever given a local candidate. He is also president of the Y. M. C. A. of his home city.

Come and hear him. No admission and no collection. The choir will render two anthems. The time is 7:45 p. m.

CULTIVATION OF CIVIC SPIRIT

Certain communities in every state are by-words. The people of Glendale do not need to go very far to find examples of towns the very mention of the names of which provoke a smile if not a sneer. Neither is it difficult to ascertain the reason for this attitude of the public toward certain centers. Just as nothing more can come out of an individual than is in him; so nothing more can be expected of a community than what is to be found in the individuals of which it is composed.

It is the misfortune of certain centers that from the beginning they have been settled by a class of individuals embodying quite a number of personal peculiarities that are usually tabooed by well brought up people. Well bred, tactful, cultured people shun such localities and they are left to attract to themselves people of like mind and manners. That has been the case in all ages. It has been the case with ancient cities. The cities of Greece had their peculiarities and those peculiarities were embodied in proverbs.

It is thus seen that a city is never greater than the sum of its citizenship. The making of a city lies with the people who live in it. If the inhabitants of a city like Glendale will only believe in their own city, love it, cherish it, speak of it in terms of endearment, be inspired to write poems about its beauty as have the poets of other places, they will build up for themselves a center of sweetness, light, intelligence, intellectuality, kindly virtues, grace and godliness that would make the fame of this city go forth to the ends of the earth.

There are enough cultured people in Glendale to give it a tone that should elevate it to a pinnacle in the eyes of the world such as was once occupied by Athens, "the eye of Greece." There are enough shrewd business men, skilled in all the intricacies of modern competition, in Glendale, to give this city a reputation for wisdom and advancement all over the land.

In business, in the shop, in the office, the employees inevitably take their tone from the head of the establishment, with few exceptions. If the master is surly, disagreeable, careless, indifferent, disobliging, you will find such qualities reflected in quite a number of his help. In a city, in like manner, the leading people give tone to the community. Those who live in a city should be loyal to its interests.

By keeping that ideal before the minds of the community the leaders of the city can greatly influence the citizenship of this place for the better. That they do so is a matter for congratulation. There dwells in the hearts of the citizens of Glendale a loyalty to the community interests that is a good augury for the future.

This is merely a family on a large scale. What affects one usually affects all. Therefore it is necessary for all of us to acquaint ourselves with the needs of the community. Every citizen should equip himself with an intelligent comprehension of the needs of the community—not of one small part of it but of all. Everyone should make himself acquainted with the topographical outlines of the city,—its streets, its divisions, its boundaries and the conditions that affect each.

Unity of civic spirit is a great matter in a community. It means growth. It means a common mind on all public questions. It means a common defense when needed. It means that at all times and in all places the citizens of Glendale will have something to say for their city; that they will not be ashamed to invite people to come out to see it and to settle in it. That the rest of the state and the country will by and by begin to observe that loyalty to mark, learn and inwardly digest it.

Good reputation in a city is as important as good name in man or woman. It is the immediate jewel of a city's soul. Let no citizen of this favored spot, round about which, north, east and west, the mountains keep watch and ward and to the south of which stretches the almighty Pacific, guardian and minister of the coast, ever lose sight of the natural beauty in the midst of which the city lies and let all cultivate the inward beauty of soul which will be in harmony with all this wealth of scenery and will when viewed in its collectivity as the spirit of Glendale, lift it out of the category of common places and make it as it were, a city set upon a hill that cannot be hid.

FIRE AT EAGLE ROCK

What might have been a very serious conflagration, accompanied by considerable damage and even loss of life, turned out to be merely a considerable blaze of brush over a large territory which was fortunately but sparsely populated and the greater part of which was unoccupied land.

About 2 p. m. Friday dense volumes of smoke were observed pouring northward in the direction of Eagle Rock. The sky was rapidly obscured by the rolling clouds and occasional flames shone through the ligneous smoke that indicated a fire of no small dimensions in the brushwood of the hills in the vicinity of Eagle Rock.

Ere long a summons came to the Glendale fire department and Chief Lankford, Assistant Brewster, Tholey Fellows, Emil Keifer and L. Smith jumped on the engine and were out at the scene of the conflagration in record time. The Glendale boys did serviceable work in confining the flames to a narrow area and in extinguishing the fire on some houses that were catching fire.

The fire started somewhere near Eagle Rock in the foothills there. The brush is like tinder these warm days and a spark is sufficient to set it going. It is believed that some careless pedestrian threw the traditional lighted match into the brush and went on his way indifferent to what might happen. Others state that some boys had lit a campfire and forgot to see that the ashes were completely extinguished. Whatever was the reason, the flames got a good hold and swept the hillside clear.

Considerable alarm was caused the inhabitants of houses in the vicinity of Eagle Rock by the flames, which in several cases fastened on the buildings and were extinguished with some difficulty. Not much damage was done, however, as far as can be ascertained. At least three houses were in danger for a time.

Notwithstanding the stringent laws that govern journeying and sojourning in the hills at this season, not a year passes without some outbreak of this kind. The officials of Eagle Rock and those of Glendale again remind the public that they are expected to co-operate with the departments in trying to prevent fires of this kind and to report those who break the laws governing the lighting of fires among the brush. Very little attention to the regulations would go far to prevent the occurrence of such fires. The one at Eagle Rock on Friday turned out to be of no serious dimensions, but it might have been otherwise. There is as much need to keep a lookout in Glendale and its vicinity lest a similar outbreak occur.

NORTH GLENDAL

Mrs. Charles Rathbone and sister, Mrs. Clem Brubaker of 1541 Patterson street, returned last Thursday from the North, where they spent two weeks visiting their father, Mr. J. Sponser of Merced, also attending the exposition in San Francisco, reporting a most delightful time.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Stanton of Arden avenue, with a party of friends from Los Angeles, motored to Big Bear valley Friday evening, where they will remain over the week-end.

Mrs. George H. Bentley of 1310 Burchett street entertained as her guests during the past week her cousins, Miss Dorothy Freeman of Long Beach and Mrs. E. O. Smith of Merino, Colo., who is visiting extensively in California.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wilson of 1636 Ruth street are entertaining as their house guests for the week-end Mr. Wilson's mother, Mrs. J. W. Wilson, and a party of friends from Redlands.

Mr. Wallace Fryer of 121 Howard street is expected home the first of the week from Catalina Island, where he, with several other scout masters and the Boy Scouts of this locality, are enjoying an outing of two weeks' duration in the Y. M. C. A. camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther D. Eastman of 1621 Burchett street will entertain as their guests at dinner Sunday Mr. Eastman's sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Newsom of Graham station.

AUTO, PIANO, EXPOSITION TRIP, BANK DEPOSIT, SCHOLARSHIPS TO BE AWARDED

In less than a month the Glendale Evening News subscription contest will have ended and the contestants will have been awarded the prizes.

One of the hard workers will then be enjoying motor rides in The News Maxwell touring car, and another hard worker will be entertaining friends with the sweet music produced by the beautiful Schiller piano, and still another hard worker will be getting ready to spend a week at one of the expositions. The contestant who did not work quite so hard as the winners of the greater prizes will be deciding which is the better to choose, the $50 certificate or deposit in the First National bank of Glendale or a $75 tuition scholarship certificate in the Isaacs-Woodbury Business college, Los Angeles.

The days are swiftly passing and the best prizes will be awarded to those who have been the most diligent, and who have been able to successfully call their friends to their assistance. Your friends are waiting and anxious to assist you to win the automobile, but you must have the courage to ask them for the assistance. The greater interest you show the greater will be the desire of your friends to aid you in winning the first prize.

TRIANGLE BRUSH FIRE

In the angle caused by the inclination of the two streets—Glendale avenue and Verdugo road—and based by an unnamed alley, a considerable Mexican camp stands. The campers are orderly and lawabiding and therefore are not to be blamed for the brush fire that broke out in that particular triangle Friday morning about 11:30.

The triangle is filled with a tangle of weeds; or rather, it was filled, for now only the gaunt skeletons of sunflowers, mullein stalks and the false jimson weed are to be seen.

The alarm was sent in to the fire station about 11:40 a. m., as at that time the flames had gone beyond the control of the Mexican women and children. By the time that Fire Chief Lankford, accompanied by Patrolman Laurence, arrived on the scene with the chemical, the flames were sweeping the triangle and threatening the tents.

Working strenuously, the two officials managed to control and finally to extinguish the flames. In this work they were assisted by some of the onlookers and in particular by Jess Chambers, who rendered valuable service in the work. The whole affair was over in about half an hour and the terrified Mexican women and children retired to their tents praising and thanking the fire department of Glendale.

MACMULLIN IN ROUND-UP

Mr. MacMullin of MacMullin's sanitary dairy is spending his vacation out on the desert rounding up and branding cattle. He writes from Lancaster that the alfalfa crops are growing nicely and the cattle are looking fine this year. He says the thermometer registers 110 in the shade there, but there is no shade. There was quite a thunderstorm east of Mojave on Wednesday. All roads are in fair condition.

LO LO MI GIRLS

Chaperoned by Mrs. Caroline Watling, Mrs. O. W. Tarr and Mrs. A. M. Hunt, the girls of the Lo Lo Mi campfire girls will enjoy a splendid summer camping trip during the coming weeks. Mr. A. M. Carter of Sierra Madre has, with great hospitality, put his handsome residence at Sierra Madre at the disposal of the girls for their trip. Twelve girls in all will be in the party. They will be joined later by Mrs. H. A. McPherson.

PHILATHEA CLASS PARTY

At a delightfully informal class party Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Maria Stanton, Lomita avenue, the girls of the Philathea society of the First Baptist church of Glendale to the number of twelve enjoyed one of the treats of the season. Games were played, music was discoursed, refreshments served and a general good time had.

HOW RASHNESS IMPERILS LIFE

Not a summer passes without the desert taking its toll of human life, yet with ordinary precaution there should be no possibility of such a loss. Time after time the experienced desert dwellers warn the rash tourist or claim-staker that it is dangerous to set out over certain parts of the desert without preparation and that for inexperienced parties to brave the dangers of the excessive sun heat and possible lack of water means death.

In the old days every now and then some foolish parties would lose their lives by neglect of the advice of the old "desert rat" to whom the country is an open book; who knows the few waterholes and who, even when the worst comes to the worst, can find water by digging down where the greasewood luxuriates and color indicates an underground supply. He can satisfy his thirst sometimes by sucking the juicy fibre of the yucca palm and survive where the inexperienced would perish. Even then with all his knowledge the "old hand" will not, unless actually forced by circumstances, start out on a dangerous trip across the soda lakes of the desert or through the Death valley region, except during the cooler season.

With all this lore at their command, and freely offered them, parties from the city, now that the automobile offers them its facilities, rush out to the desert region on one errand after another, trusting to the speed of their machine to carry them through. The case of the Los Angeles lawyer, a man of some position, who lost his life on the desert the other day, because the water in the radiator gave out, and who with a companion subsisted for some days on lubricating oil, while the third member of the party wandered aimlessly in search of assistance, is a case in point. That party seems to have had no definite idea of the route they were traveling, had no map and no compass, otherwise they would have had no difficulty in reaching a ranch which was within eighteen miles of the scene of the catastrophe.

In that case a little forethought and a little attention to getting proper advice or even the expense of a guide, would have saved the life that was lost. Nature is inexorable in some of her moods and those who brave her must pay the penalty. The region of the soda lakes, of which there are many all over the desert, is particularly dangerous at this time of the year. The thermometer goes up to 140 and sometimes more, and to be without water and lost in that region is almost certainly fatal. Even a short exposure to the sun's deadly rays sometimes results in death. Such was the case with a San Francisco party a few years ago. When skirting Lake Searles, the strong desert wind blew off the hat of one of the party. He immediately jumped out of the automobile to recover it, stuck in the adhesive mud of the old lake, and was held struggling there long enough to perish from sunstroke.

Nature, kindly to those who approach her aright, is inexorably cruel to the foolish and inconsiderate who rush in where wiser folk keep out or only tread with utmost caution. Like the people who rock boats, the fool who points a gun at another, and all the different varieties of summer lunatics, the man who dares the desert, without precaution, experience or knowledge, is exposing himself to serious danger and very frequently pays the extreme penalty for his foolhardiness.

MEXICO'S SAD PLIGHT

Stretching out beseeching hands, the poor peons of Mexico and even those who a few years ago were millionaires, look toward the United States, where peace and plenty reign, and cry like the men of Macedonia of old, "Come over and help us!" It seems hard to some of those perishing women and children that they look and there is none to help, they cry aloud and there is none to save.

In the wisdom that is vouchsafed to those in high places, it is to be hoped that the present government of the United States may be able to devise some means whereby those despairing people may be aided. It is not by marching with fire and sword into a devastated land wherein all the joy has been hushed that the salvation of that land may be accomplished, but rather by approaching it with the gentle hand of ministration for those who are still our brethren.

If in the saving of Mexico the strong hand should be needed anywhere, it would certainly be right to cut short the career of murderers and ravagers of the land and to punish them. All this the United States could do with great ease and with a grace and good intention that would render such ministration acceptable.

It is hardly possible for this generation of the United States to understand what misery exists in Mexico. There are people living in Glendale who could tell of miseries such as no one here could imagine; miseries that are only equaled in those parts of Belgium and Poland where the hand of the conqueror has been felt. There are people, United States citizens, who built up businesses in Mexico for years and were assured by treaty between the two countries of fair treatment and protection, who have just escaped from the unspeakable jails of that southern land and have been glad to leave with their lives and nothing else.

It is things like these that make the blood of Americans boil. There has been patience and forbearance to the limit and it appears as though the time were come to act. It is believed that a majority of the Mexican people would welcome assistance of a definite nature from the United States and it should surely be possible to contrive to afford beneficial aid without needless fighting.

In this country, with the many blessings vouchsafed it, it is difficult to realize what it means to the poor Mexicans when the rate of exchange for Mexican money in the United States is 1000 per cent. A lady, resident in Glendale, a short time ago informed this newspaper that a loaf of bread in the border cities cost $5. What that means to the rich is bad enough; what it means to the poor cannot be expressed. That the poor have died by the thousand goes without saying. Only in the army can men obtain food. That is why the different contesting commanders are always able to get men to fight. They mortgage their bodies, as they have mortgaged their land, to prolong a miserable existence. The strong hand that will put an end to all this misery would be welcomed everywhere.

ENGLISH LUTHERAN CHURCH

Interest in our work in the Jewel City is growing. Many are the responses to our invitations. And according to the many within the vicinity of the "house of Luther," larger results will come. Our primary object, of course, is to interest ourselves in those of our "household of faith," but our church is here for the good of the community in its moral uplift, and to that end the doors are open for all who wish to make our congregation their church home. We welcome all. Sin laden men and women who wish help are heartily welcome. Our congregation is organized for the preaching and practice of a gospel that saves the soul, cheers the mind and relieves the needy. It is our purpose to continue the master's blessed work while on earth.

The pastor's address this coming Sunday morning is "Solomon or Christ." Services in the Seventh Day Adventist church, corner of Third and Isabel streets.

The Sunday school assembles at 9:45 a. m. No Sunday evening service.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH

In the absence of the pastor, who is away on his vacation, the sermon tomorrow morning will be given by Rev. Scott Anderson of the South Park church in Los Angeles. As Mr. Anderson is one of the ablest men of this church in Southern California, this announcement should bring out an unusually large audience. Those who are readers of the Times have seen reviews of Mr. Anderson's sermons nearly every week, and these show him to be a deep thinker and strong preacher. The supply committee will endeavor to have a competent man to occupy the pulpit every Lord's day during the absence of the pastor, so they urge the members and friends to support the work with their usual zeal during the vacation period.

There will be no preaching service in the evening. The membership will thus have a splendid opportunity of visiting and lending their presence to some of the sister churches, where the interest may be sagging just a little while the weather is hot. Mr. Berkey will have charge of the men's class at the Bible school ad interim. The attendance in this class keeps up unusually well.

AN OMISSION

Mr. Wilkerson, the architect, had been invited down to the Clarks to display the plans of Clark's new house to some guests.

"Here is the front elevation," explained the architect as he laid the plans on the library table for the inspection of the visitors, "with the outside window and the circular gallery; this is the east elevation, showing the tower."

After various comments had been made by the guests, little Arthur, aged seven, who was enormously interested in the new house, cried: "And where are the two mortgages father said he was going to put on?"

NOTICE OF APPEAL

Public notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale did at its meeting on the 2nd day of August, 1915, fix the time and place for the hearing of the appeals to said Board against the diagram and assessment for the construction of a bridge on Opechee Way and for the grading of a channel in the Verdugo Canon Wash, on Monday evening at 8:15 P. M., August 9th, 1915, in the Council Chamber at the City Hall, Glendale. Said appeals offer objections to the acceptance of said work on the grounds of faulty workmanship, that work is not upon publicly owned property or right-of-way, that it is of benefit to whole city, that all needed rights-of-way are not secured, and that the diagram is erroneous.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Louise Simons, 414 Orange street, is expecting as her house guests next week Mrs. Lydia Thelia and her daughter, Catherine, from Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. A. W. Beach, along with Miss Grace Beach and Miss Alice Beach, her daughters, left Friday on a two weeks' trip to San Francisco, where they will visit the exposition.

Mrs. Ida Myers of San Fernando road and Mrs. W. H. Hellman of Paloma avenue, along with their uncle, Mr. H. W. Duncan of Los Angeles, made a very pleasant trip the other day to Matilija Springs, Ventura county.

Miss Edith Sanborn of Covina is a house guest of Miss Carol Duncan, 307 South San Fernando road. Miss Sanborn will be here several days, during which time she will make various trips in the vicinity of Glendale.

Mrs. Louise Simons, 414 Orange street, was delightfully entertained this week by Mrs. Emma McCormick of Pasadena. Mrs. Simons is an Iowan and while the guest of Mrs. McCormick met many old friends from that state.

Miss Alice McCoy and Miss Esther Sinclair were house guests Thursday and Friday of Mrs. F. H. Dow, a former resident of Glendale, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Fitzgerald, 2015 West Adams street, Los Angeles. The spacious and beautiful grounds of the Fitzgerald residence will be the scene of a large dancing party tonight in honor of Mrs. Dow.

PREPARING ADVERTISING COPY

The Glendale Evening News is in a position to prepare advertising copy for advertisers who do not have the time to write their own advertisements, and all that is necessary is for our ad writer to get a few hints as to what the merchant in question wishes to advertise.

There are merchants who prepare the copy for their own advertisements, and they do so promptly, and take but little time of The News ad man, and then there are merchants who prepare their own copy, but they never know when they will have it, so to be quite sure of getting it, the ad man must make a half dozen or more calls at the place of business, and probably wait ten minutes the last visit until Mr. Merchant writes the advertisement.

A total of an hour is spent each week in securing the reading matter for a $1.50 or a $2 advertising space. Add a half or more to this for composition work, and there is really no profit left. The only way it is possible to continue in business and handle the advertisements of a few customers like this is because there is a reasonable profit derived from the patronage of the business of merchants who are prompt in furnishing copy, and thus not take unnecessary time of the ad man.

The publisher of the Evening News has had experience with business men of many ways and many minds and is always ready to make allowances for neglects and shortcomings, but does not consider it good business to spend all business is worth to get it.

TROPICO

Mrs. Edward Ayers of Palmer avenue and her daughter, Mrs. Cover Melrose, and young son, Clifford Melrose of Reedley, enjoyed a most delightful outing at the beach during the recent visit of Mrs. Melrose and son at the home of Mrs. Ayers. Returning to their home in Reedley, Mr. and Mrs. Melrose and son, Clifford, left for San Francisco, where they joined Mr. Ayers and have been enjoying the past week in the northern city attending the exposition and visiting the many places of interest. Ed Ayers, Jr., of Los Angeles has been visiting his mother during the absence of his father in San Francisco.

Mrs. J. C. Ware of Randle, Wash., is the house guest of Mrs. Nina Richards of Paloma avenue. Mrs. Richards and her guest were neighbors at their former home, Rockford, Ills.

C. E. Patterson of Paloma avenue will leave shortly on a visit to San Francisco and the Panama-Pacific exposition.

Through a typographical error, the name of Miss Helen Muhleman of West Tenth street was omitted from the list of the party of young people whom Mrs. T. T. Smith of North Cen-

Members of the You and I club are arranging a classical program which will feature a charming matinee musicale to be given at the home of Miss Milcent Virden on Mira Loma avenue during the latter part of this month.

N. P. Banks' W. R. C. will hold their regular semi-monthly meeting Friday afternoon, August 13, in the G. A. R. hall. All visiting members are invited to attend.

GUESTS FROM KANSAS

Misses Amy Lamberson and Gwendolyn Markle are guests for several weeks of Miss Mildred Lyons, 232 South Louise street. These ladies are teachers and are spending their vacation seeing the West. They will visit both expositions before returning home and are now enjoying the beauties of Glendale and vicinity, the beaches and the mountains. This is their first trip to California and they are very favorably impressed. Misses Lamberson and Markle come from Lyons, Kans., the former home of the Lyons family.

No. 2

YOUR PRESENT LOCATION?

Are you thoroughly satisfied from a standpoint of, first profit, second happiness, and third health? If you are, you are ideally situated, if you are not satisfied from all of these three standpoints then you must be more or less discontented, and if I can show you where you can embrace all three of these fundamentals and at a cost of perhaps 25 per cent of the value of your present holdings, you would desire to investigate further, would you not?

The owners of this land have got such confidence in the ability of the soil to pay for the land itself and provide a living for the worker while doing so, that they have located on the land twelve German families whose total cash capitalization each was from $1.50 to $11, which was the highest amount any one of them possessed, and they are making good.

In further confidence of the success of this land, the owners have spent over $450,000.00 in improving and leveling it, and in building a street car line entirely through the property.

If the above German settlers, without any capital, can make good, you can see the possibilities for the man with from $1000 to $10,000 to invest. This land will net conservatively from $50 to $200 per acre per year, and a crop failure is unknown. It has an unlimited water supply at a cost of one dollar per acre per year. It is located within five miles of the most rapidly growing city of 50,000 people in the state of California, and can be bought today for $200 per acre on your own terms, and I can logically show you that the same land should increase in value, that it will be worth $500 to $1000 per acre within five years, where you can have profit, happiness and health, which mean satisfaction and contentment. If you are in the market for land, I will be glad to give you further details by writing or calling for my little booklet, "FUNDAMENTAL FARMING FACTS," which will show you the best land investment offered in the state of California.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

(By Rev. R. W. Mottern)

Topic Sunday, August 8, "How We Can Promote the Temperance Reform" (Eph. 3:14-21).

Bible Help

Talk temperance everywhere, Prov. 23:29-35.
Co-operate with worthy cause, Jer. 35:12-19.
Let our example speak, Rom. 12:17-23.
Enforce laws against evil, Exod. 21:28-36.
Regard our higher interests, Col. 2:6-12.
The real inspirer, Eph. 5:18-20.

Seed Notes

No one objects to the statements that the entire intemperance business from the maker to the buyer is without its most serious faults, and that justly. The best said is nothing good can be said. The effects and results of the entire business make it the most befouling, inhuman, gluttonous, selfish on this side of eternity. And were it not for the awful results of the traffic, entailing its curse upon man, child, wife and the ruin of family, home and things most endearing, there would scarcely be the objection to it there is.

But why allow a business, so destructive to humanity, is so often asked. Why permit its encroachments upon common decency? Why allow society to be so debauched by its curse and terrible influence? The only answer that can be given is, "Money!" The money that is in it, making fat purses, giving easy, lazy livelihood, riches and opulence. We stand amazed when the awful picture of the result of intemperance is thrown on the screen, that men and women can harden their hearts, their sympathies, their interest, their desire for humanity's welfare, as to engage in a business so destructive to their fellowmen. That kind of greed, words the most stinging and bitter, galling and sharp, cannot be too severe in denunciation of such types of humanity.

It has been declared for years the solution of the whole liquor problem is in the hands of the Christian church. We grant it. But the marshalling of Christian sentiment is the rub. Thousands of church members like their "schnaps" and would deem it an infringement of "liberty" were they deprived of it. We need a Moses to gather this mighty Christian host together and lead it out of this terrible wilderness of indifference and ignorance on this problem.

A temperance society, pledge, active and aggressive, can do much.

Intelligent interest, literature, fervent prayers and money will go far to help in this worthy cause. Encouragement and praise for temperance work done in your community is good. Lay stress on temperance meetings in your society and prepare well for it is good. Public meetings, able speakers, placing temperance placards in town, articles in the local papers, dissemination of much literature, do best.

PALA INDIAN FIESTA

SAN DIEGO, August 7.—One of the most spectacular events of the San Diego exposition year is promised exposition visitors August 25, 26, 27 and 28, when the Pala Indian tribe from its reservation in San Diego county will hold its annual fiesta on the grounds of the exposition.

The entire tribe of about 100 aged Indians and 400 younger braves and squaws and children will be transported by automobiles and motor trucks to the fair and there go into camp about their fiesta allotment of space. Here throughout the four days and nights they will celebrate beginning August 25 in memory of the anniversary of their patron saint, Father San Luis Rey.

The elders will deck themselves in full gorgeous costume and engage in their ancient dances and rites and many of the younger braves also will join, though scores of them have so felt the influence of civilization that they confine their activities more generally to the athletic game of Pelote and the all-night gambling game of Peon.

Combined with their celebration, a number of their craftsmen will demonstrate their method of making fine lace, a handicraft in which the women of this tribe excel those of any other Indian women. Basket weaving and pottery making also are important handicrafts of these women.

HOW TO FEED FAMILIES

How to feed babies, how to feed children, how to feed grown-up people—such is the subject of a new free correspondence course in adult and child nutrition just announced by the University of California. The course was prepared by Agnes Fay Morgan, assistant professor of nutrition in the college of agriculture, and is open to anybody without cost.

The world is full of foolish and harmful fads and fancies regarding what to eat and not to eat. The object of the university in establishing this new course is to give people opportunity to learn authoritatively the plain, common sense about what to eat and why. The course will explain the composition and properties of common foods, their relation to each other, their value in the body as producers of body heat, and their power to do work; how the wear and tear of daily living and the growth of children call for building material to replace and construct body tissue, and how family dietaries should be planned in order that it may be certain a well-balanced variety is being provided and all the real bodily needs being met.

That it should be enjoyable is not the least important of the marks of a sensibly planned family dietary.

WEST WILDEST NOW

Many tourists have thought it fashionable, when coming among us from the East, to regret the passing of the wild west of ancient days, as typified by Bret Harte and others of his school. But according to J. H. Jewell, a Monrovia recently returned from a trip through Northern California, the west of California is wilder now than it ever dared be before—in certain respects, at least—says the Monrovia News. Mr. Jewell gives as an example stage driving. The old-time stage driver managed from eight to a dozen horses and drove from the top of a sea-going, leather-sprung coach. Excitement was furnished by Indians, bandits and the possibility of the horses running away. The modern stage driver handles eighty horses, harnessed under the hood of his automobile stage, and he gives his passengers more sensations in half an hour's "looping-the-loops" on mountain passes than the old-timer did in a whole day's journey. Mr. Jewell rode from Lakeport to Calistoga and says the driver is one of the most remarkably efficient men he ever had the privilege of watching.

MEXICAN EXCHANGE

The rate of exchange on remittances from Mexico is 1000 per cent. This is going some, even for war times, when it takes $200 Mexican currency to buy a $20 draft for United States points.

CLOTHES AND THE MAN

To extract the romantic picturesque out of modern male attire is as impossible as raising the hollyhock in asphalt. It does not grow. Statues of great men all remind us that wherever their greatness may have resided, it was certainly not in their clothes. Some days ago, when the monument to Wendell Phillips was dedicated, an art critic observed: "There is something humiliating in the powerlessness of sculpture to cope with the contemporary costume of man."

The aim of men these days is to dress all alike. He is well dressed whose clothes attract the least attention, either for shabbiness or elegance. What we have lost is color and individuality. Colors survive at the edges, in shirts or neckties, and in the dark browns, blues and grays of our suitings. (Imagine a man coming to his office in a flame-pink business suit!)

He who wears an unusual garment even somber of hue, is a target for stares and snickers. The garment may be comfortable, convenient and even beautiful in itself, but if it is not generally worn, a thin skinned person will be happier out of it.

The supreme virtue of modern clothes is that they are democratic. Railroad president and office clerk dress much alike. Such clothes tend to erase social distinction. Americans instinctively dislike a uniform, and if obliged to wear one, they generally climb back into "civilian" as quickly as they can. It takes a shrewd observer to guess the average man's occupation from his clothes.—Boston Globe.

WHAT BIRDS EAT

Within certain limits birds eat the kind of food that is most accessible, especially when their natural food is scarce or wanting. Thus they sometimes injure the crops of the rancher who has unintentionally destroyed their natural food in his improvement of swamp or pasture. Most of the damage done by birds and complained of by ranchers and fruit growers arises from this very cause. The berry-bearing shrubs and seed-bearing weeds have been cleared away, and the birds have no recourse but to attack the cultivated grain or fruit which have replaced their natural food supply. The great majority of land birds subsist upon insects during the period of nesting and molting and also feed their young upon them during the first few weeks. Many species live almost entirely upon insects, taking vegetable food only when other subsistence fails. It is thus evident that in the course of a year birds destroy an incalculable number of insects, and it is difficult to overestimate the value of their services in restraining the great tide of insect life.

GROWING CHINESE PLANTS

That the climate of Eastern China is similar to that of Eastern North America seems to be the reason for the success which has attended the introduction of many Chinese plants into this country; at least this is the opinion of the specialists in the department's office of foreign seed and plant introduction. In a publication of this office which lists seeds and plants imported during the fall of 1912, a definite report is given on the growth of seventy-nine different importations from China, most of which may be termed successful. Plant introductions from foreign countries are distributed by the office until sufficient time has elapsed to give some indication of their possibilities in this country.

CONSUMPTION OF SUGAR

The consumption of sugar per capita in the United States is estimated to be more than ten times what it was a hundred years ago. During the past five years the consumption has averaged about eighty-three pounds per capita. A hundred years ago the consumption of sugar varied widely. It was usually, however, between four and ten pounds a year. Great Britain consumed ninety-two pounds per capita more than the United States in 1911, but France and Germany used far less, the per capita consumption being thirty-nine and forty-two pounds respectively.

STATE FUNDS NOW AVAILABLE

The appropriations aggregating some $2,000,000 made by the last legislature for enlarging, repairing, furnishing and developing the various state institutions will be available on and after next Monday and the state engineering department is now engaged on plans for the expenditure of these funds during the next eighteen months, says the Southwest Contractor. Among the appropriations in which Southern California is particularly interested are the following:

Construction and furnishing of cottages, Southern California state hospital, $50,000.

EARTHQUAKES

In June an earthquake shook down a number of buildings in the Imperial valley, south of Los Angeles. Across the line in Mexico a few persons were killed by the falling of adobes or unbaked bricks.

Easterners regard earthquakes with fear, because they are strange to them. Yet, more persons are killed east of the mountains every year by blizzards, tornadoes, sun-strikes and lightning than have been killed in California by earthquakes since the state was first settled by white men.

Geologists declare that Los Angeles is immune to severe earthquakes because the foundation on which it rests is a natural cushion, consisting of several hundred feet of shale, resting on broken rocks.—Brain and Brawn.

LIVE STOCK IN ALASKA

Live stock has not received as much attention as crop production in Alaska, but enough has been done to show that there are considerable possibilities in this line. Grasses grow luxuriantly in the interior valleys, and forage crops of various kinds can be grown successfully in all parts of the territory. One handicap, however, is the difficulty of curing forage in the damp weather generally prevailing. It is proposed to meet this difficulty in part at least by the use of silos.

CALIFORNIA THE RAISIN STATE

Practically all the raisins and dried grapes produced in the United States are California products. According to the last census the production of raisins and dried grapes over the whole of the country amounted to $169,245,101 pounds, and of this total California furnished 169,210,679 pounds. It is estimated that there are now 110,000 acres planted to raisin grapes in California. In 1913 the raisin production was estimated at 130,000,000 pounds, and in 1914 at 196,000,000 pounds.

JUST THINK OF THE HONOR

"Good enough! What form will it take?"

"WORST WEED IN WORLD"

This was introduced into California along the trans-continental railroad lines, probably from the bedding and the clothes of the freshly imported European laborers. It now has a firm hold in many places and it is particularly ominous to the hay and grain growing parts of the state. Warnings have been sent out by Dr. Cook, the horticultural commissioner. It is very important for the children of California to be able to recognize the weed and so get their minds turned toward its eradication. The teachers can do a useful work by using and emphasizing the important lesson thus placed in their hands.

It would require a psychologist to determine the motives of the malign idiot who burns a stack of hay. A post mortem study of the offender would be instructive and pleasing.
